FAMOUS HYMN-WRITER THANKS HONOLULU FRIENDS

FANNY CROSBY, AUTHOR OF 3000 HYMNS.

The following letter from Fanny Crosby has been received by John Martin of the Y. M. C. A.:

756 State St., Bridgeport, Conn., April 13, 1905.

Dear Brother Martin: You are certainly very kind to take an interest in, and do so much for me, and I wish to thank you and to tell you I have enjoyed reading the program, and my heart has been touched by knowing of the different nationalities singing my hymns, and all the work you are doing for the Master. May God bless you and strengthen you for every good word and work and at last may there be many stars in your crown; and you have an abundant entrance into the upper and better kingdom, where we shall all sit down at the marriage supper of the Lamb.

I have just been writing to Pastor Wadman and tried to thank him for letter and loving gift of ten dollars, from you all; but I fear I omitted to mention the money. Will you accept my thanks, give them to him and the people.
With a fervent God bless you, I am,
Your friend and sister,

FANNY CROSBY.

MUSIC FROM A DISTANCE.

To Be Supplied By Wire in Any Home.

A new device for electrically transmitting music to distant points is described by W. E. Brindley in The Western Electrician. The machine, which is the invention of Dr. Thaddeus Cahill, is to be shown at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Ore., this summer. It is based on the principle of the production of vibrations by means of an electrical current whose frequency may be controlled at a distance. Says Mr. Brindley:

"He (Dr. Cahill) conceived the idea of building an electrical generator that would set up the exact number of vibrations required to produce each note of the musical scale. For example, there are 256 vibrations per second necessary to produce middle C. This is the principle upon which the machine works. The details are too complicated for the purpose of the present article.
"The operator who produces music on Dr. Cahill's machine plays on a keyboard similar to that of a piano. It is asserted that a musician who can play the piano can learn to operate the Cahill machine in a month. When the operator presses a key there is no immediate sound, as in a piano. The key is really a button connected with electric wires. When the key is pressed a circuit is completed, the required vibration is secured and sound is produced, not at the point of operation, but at the other end of the circuit, perhaps a hundred or a thousand miles away.

When the circuit is made complete each wire sounds a note upon a metallic disk, being translated into coherent music. And the music is not necessarily similar to that produced on a piano.
By increasing the number of generators, which are operated by an elaborate system of stops and keys, the machine will produce any kind of music—violin, banjo, mandolin, guitar, etc., or the combination of a number of kinds, thus giving the orchestral effect. The volume of the music may be regulated by means of a rheostat, which is operated like the controller of a street-car. With a machine equipped with 72 generators an orchestral program might be rendered in three keys and with considerable modulation.

"The practical working out of Dr.
Cahill's wonderful invention is being rapidly perfected. Telharmonic companies will be organized and managed much as are telephone companies, and for a time it is expected that telephone lines will be utilized in the transmission of music by Dr. Cahill's method.
It is expected that subscribers may be served with music for $5 a month.
Operators will be employed in the various central offices, and these will play continuously. A daily program will be arranged and mailed to subscribers. Thus one may look at the program, consult the clock, and turn on the music. Immediately the room will be filled with a symphony, a lively march, or a popular 'rag-time' air, depending on what the operator is playing in the central office at the time.

"Transmission of music by means of Dr. Cahill's device is practically unlimited in extent. An operator in Chicago might produce music for a concert in New York City. Transmission for so great a distance would probably not

How Cheap
Silver Is?

"LANCASTER."

How Cheap
Silver Is?

Let us open your eyes on this subject.

Many think that solid silver ware is beyond their means; this is not true. Do you know that solid silver is cheaper than plated ware?

We'll prove it to you.

Take a dozen plated spoons at $4.00 per dozen, and a dozen of our "Lancaster" at $6.50 per dozen; there is more than $4.00 worth of silver in our solid silver spoons, and silver is a staple article which has at all times a marketable value.

Silver is now lower than ever. Buy now if you need silver ware and you will have, besides a safe investment; the pleasure and use of something of which you will never tire.

WHAT AILED HIM.

A small boy, who had been told by his aunt that God made Adam a wife out of a rib which he took from the side of the first man, complained soon after of not feeling well.

"What is the matter with you?" inquired his relatives.
"I've got such a pain in my side," was the reply. "I think I must be going to have a wife."
